

This month's graduate student profile is of Miss. Leanne Koroscil.

Leanne is originally from a grain farm outside the town of Sandy Lake, Manitoba. Growing up in such an idyllic environment, Leanne developed an interest and passion for agriculture which led her to complete a Bachelor's of Science in Agriculture at the University of Manitoba.

Currently, Leanne is working towards completing a Master of Science degree under the advisement of Dr. Rob Gulden at the University of Manitoba. For her thesis project, she is exploring the law of constant final yield in edible field beans (Phaseolus vulgaris L.). Prior to this project, Leanne did not have experience with field beans, therefore they are providing a new and exciting challenge for her. After completing her master's degree, Leanne plans to gain experience conducting research trials for a variety of crops.
