CWSS News You Can Use

The October update has new information regarding the upcoming annual meeting in Kelowna including our Plenary Session Speakers and information about the Pre-Conference Tours.

Member Profile

Dr. Shaun Sharpe is our next member profile. Shaun has recently been hired as a Research Scientist at AAFC Saskatoon, and since we've decided he'll soon be a vibrant member of CWSS we thought you should get to know him a bit better! Read on to learn more about Shaun

Board of Directors Info

- On our board of directors our Graduate Student Representative position will be vacant following the November meeting as Jonathan Rosset steps down. Also, we have a candidate for the Research Chair position as Charles Geddes has let his name stand for nomination. And lastly Andrew McKenzie-Gopsill has agreed to be one of the CWSS representatives on the Plant Canada board once David Clements steps down.

- 90 years of Excellence! The Membership Committee is looking for photos or other memorabilia you would like to share from years gone by (e.g. photos from past annual meetings; documents) to commemorate weed science activities over the past 90 years. Please send photos and/or documents to: wendy.asbil@canada.ca by November 8.

Man vs. Machine

Have you ever wondered if a drone can be more precise in defining crop injury caused by herbicide than the human eye? In a study conducted by Hema Duddu et al. (2019), UAV imagery was compared to manual visual tolerance ratings in fababeans to see if this method is more precise. Click the link to the journal article below and see for yourself!!
